SOPHOMORES DOWN FRESHMEN 6-0

Lobo Injured in Game Which Decides Lower Class Title

QUACKENBUSH LONE SCORER

Touchdown by Hero of Vermont Game Comes in Final Quarter

With the thermometer registering twenty degrees above zero Porter Field with its premature winter coating of frozen mud witnessed the close of the 1920 football season at Middlebury Saturday afternoon when sophomores downed their traditional rivals, the freshmen, by a score of 6-0. For three periods the scant one hundred spectators watched the yearling eleven hold its opponents scoreless only to succumb to their superior attack in the final quarter when Quackenbush, the hero of the Middlebury-Vermont game the Saturday previous, carried the ball over their goal line.

Though lacking in much of the fire and color which characterized the meeting of the two lower classes a year ago, Saturday's encounter was not entirely devoid of the sensational. In the first period, Lobo playing at fullback on the freshman eleven, the same position which he held in several of the 'Varsity engagements this season, suffered a slight concussion of the brain when he was tackled and at the same time badly lacerated his tongue, factors which might have resulted more seriously but for the prompt attention of Dr. J. J. Ross who was on the field.

The playing of both teams was fairly even throughout the greater part of the game, the superior aggressiveness of the sophomore team being matched by the strong defense of the under-classmen who also possessed an advantage in the punting ability of Ferry. Not until the last period when, after receiving the ball on their opponent's 45-yard line, long gains by Jakway, MacDonnell and Quackenbush carried up the field and finally over for a touchdown did the freshman line give any sign of weakening. On the other hand twice during the game, once on a blocked punt in the first quarter and again in the third period when Carleton broke loose for a gain of thirty yards the first-year threatened to score. MacDonnell, for the sophomores, also made numerous gains around both ends.

About sixty dollars was realized as a result of the program sale carried on at the Middlebury-Vermont game Saturday, November, 13. L. R. Bigelow '21 and R. S. Noonan '21 edited and managed the sale of 700 programs. The $60 cleared will be the basis for the recently founded Campus Athletic Scholarship. The booklets contained cuts of the two captains, full notation of position played and score space.

FIRST FORMAL DANCE TO-NIGHT

Seven Pieces Will Furnish Music for Sophomore Hop

WILL BEGIN AT EIGHT-THIRTY

List of Patronesses Includes President and Mrs. J. M. Thomas

Final preparations have been completed for the Sophomore Hop, the first formal dance of the season, which is to take place tonight at the McCullough Gymnasium at 8:30 o'clock. Patrons and patronnesses will be President and Mrs. John M. Thomas, Professor and Mrs. Ernest C. Bryant, Professor and Mrs. Vernon C. Harrington, Miss Eleanor S. Ross, and Mrs. Maude O. Mason.

The hall decorations feature the class colors, maroon and white. Streamers extend from a huge maroon banner in the center of the hall, bearing the numerals 1923 in white. The dance orders are white, with a gold "M" on the cover and maroon-colored cords. Refreshments will be cakes, ice cream in fruit shapes, and coffee. Fruit punch will also be available during the entire evening.

The Hop Committee was exceedingly fortunate in securing the services of the Williams College Orchestra whose playing proved most satisfactory when demonstrated at the Delta Delta Delta dance last spring. The orchestra tonight will consist of seven pieces.

The executive committee for the Hop is as follows: Chairman, Roland Shepardson; Finance, Barbara Browning, Percy Kelley, Donald Ross; Refreshments, Florence Clarke, Mae Thorpe, Henry Margeson; Program, Barbara Stilphen, Alfred Quackenbush; Music, Mary Button, Stanton Ashley; Decorations, Lester Watson, assisted by the entire committee.

IRISH QUESTION SUBJECT OF WETHERELL CLUB DEBATE

30 Present at Regular Session—Much Interest Aroused

A debate upon "Complete Independence for Ireland" was held at a meeting of the Wetherell Debating Club in the Old Chapel Friday evening and was attended by thirty students. The affirmative side was represented by White, Timberman, and Wheeler, while the negative was supported by Eddy, Sturtevant and Adams. The affirmative based their arguments upon the Irish having been a separate group of people in a distinct and separate geographical position for over 1400 years, and further stating that Ireland has not prospered under English rule. The contention was made by the negatives that the Irish were a race unfitted to govern themselves; that the conditions existing in Ireland today were the result of an unjustifiable policy of Sinn Fein terrorism; that England had during the past forty years passed much legislation to remedy the land conditions in Ireland; that Ireland had no right to impose her will upon Ulster, which has as much right to "self-determination" as Ireland and, that England in "self-defense could not grant Ireland independence. Following the debate by the teams the question was thrown open to the floor. Unusual interest was shown, students present takinng sides and advancing new argument with vigor.

THREE LETTER MEN RETIRE THIS YEAR

Capt. Mead, Brigham and Keppler End Brilliant Football Careers

Another football season has closed for Middlebury with what may be termed a measure of success, for the fact that the coveted State Championship did not fall to Captain Mead and his squad does not mean that the word failure can be attributed to the work of the 1920 squad in any sense of the word. The victory over U. V. M. makes any football season for Middlebury College a success, and added to that achievement this year there were the scoreless ties against the strong Springfield and Stevens elevens, the showing made against the Army, and the Union and B. U. victories which now seem to offset the late season reverses in the St. Lawrence and Norwich defeats. Three victories, two ties, and three defeats is a record which needs no alibi or shame-faced explanations by any one.

Three members of the first string squad will be lost by graduation. Captain Mead made the eleven in his first year at end. During the second season he was in the service, but for the last two years he has played in a regular berth at tackle and has been one of the real mainstays of the squad. Brigham, who has featured in the majority of this year's games at end, is an example of a player who has worked four years for a regular position on the team and has come through in his senior year as a letter man and a star. "Brig", originally a '19 man, made the squad his first two years and upon his return from the service last year played in the backfield and at end, missing out on his letter by two quarters. Keppler is the third man of the trio of letter men who will be missed when the whistle blows for the kick-off in the opening game next year. "Kep" made his letter in his freshman year at full back and played in the backfield in the majority of games during the S. A. T. C. Last year he was moved into the line in an effort to remedy some of the weakness there. This year he has played at both guard and tackle and his ability to open up holes coupled with his sure, hard tack-

TWO PIANO RECITAL AN INNOVATION

Novel Form of Musical Presentation Scheduled for Evening of Dec. 1

FULL PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Maier and Pattison Widely Known as Pianoforte Artists

Recitals on two pianofortes, one of which will be presented by Messrs. Guy Maier and Lee Pattison of Boston in the second number of the College Entertainment Course Wednesday evening December 1, in Mead Memorial Chapel have only recently claimed the attention of the musical world. To those distinguished artists Harold Bauer and Ossip Gabrilowtisch may be accorded the distinction of having originated this form of musical entertainment for it was with their magnificent double concerts of a few years ago that music of real worth came to be presented by two virtuosi synchronously. Previous to 1910 the two piano recital was regarded as rather a worthless sort of entertainment worthy of the vaudeville stage alone.

Notwithstanding these discouraging circumstances Messers. Pattison and Maier, student companions at the New England Conservatory, resolved to so perfect the art of two piano recital that recognition and admiration on the part of the public would be compelled. After a period of study in Boston the two young men worked in Germany, both under the same master. Returning home they began their joint career. First results were discouraging, which was to be expected. The public was little interested in concerts and were inclined to regard them as of small musical value. By means of faith, perseverance and talent the names of Maier and Pattison have come to have a new significance in the musical world, names that represent magnificent presentation of a new phase of musical art. This past year has brought ever increasing fame in honors to their standard. London and Paris demonstrated very vividly their satisfaction with the skill of these two men and their recent New York recital broke all previous records for such a form of entertainment.

The program follows:

Impromptu Roccocco	Edouard Schutt
Afternoon of a Faun	Claude Debussy
Scherzo	Saint Saens
Variations on a Theme of Haydn	Brahms
Pupazzetti	Alfred Cascella
Coronation Scene from Boris Godunow	Modest Moussorgsky
Valse and Scherzo	Anton Arensky
Rakoczy March	Ernest Kutcheson

The Impromptu Roccocco of Edouard Schutt is a very typical work of that French composer. It is a melodious and rather saccihirne composition displaying the composer's talents to very good advantage. The Afternoon of a Faun, originally composed for orchestra, is one of the best known works of Claude Debussy. It has found an enormous popularity in America, not altogether unaccountable, for it is a composition of exquisite orchestral coloring, as fine a piece of musical delineation as exists in the literature of modern music. This prelude was suggested by Mallarmes' Poem of the same name. Its first performance took place in Paris in 1894. Notwithstanding the somewhat obscure text of the poem the composer has accompanied it with delicate, expressive and graceful music,

The Glee Club

At the outset of the present season the Glee Club is confronted with a severe test. In the comparatively short space of three months it will be obliged to cover all of the ground which, in terms of the Undergraduate Association constitution, should normally be given nine. By providing for the election of officers following the Junior Week concert framers of the constitution sought to afford each succeeding administration ample time for reorganization and for completing the year's schedule at an early date. Deprived of this advantage the test of the officers elected last week as well as of the entire club will be their ability to economize both in time and in effort.

The presence of many members of last year's Glee Club at the first meeting was cheering in that it guarantees a thorough comprehension on the part of a goodly number of this year's organization of certain elements which should be eliminated from their program of work. The 1919-20 Glee Club was a failure and responsibility for it may be laid in a large measure to the attitude of the men themselves. At no time during the year were the demands of the club given more than secondary consideration. As a necessary result the organization was extremely weak, a fact which was plainly reflected in the thankfully few performances.

To contribute toward the development of an institution which will be of annual value to the College in the way of good advertising should be the aim of every man who has enlisted in the Glee Club this year. Such an object is worthy of the full moral and financial support of the College. Furthermore, the practice of spending a half-year in preparation for two concerts in the most inaccessible regions of the state is not one to be approved. Rather, the management should endeavor to secure engagements in Bennington, Rutland, Bellows Falls, Brattleboro or Barre where the efforts of the club will receive wider recognition.

Handicapped by a late start yet benefitted by the teachings of last year the Glee Club must pay more attention to the importance of its activities if it is to attain a greater success than that which has rewarded the lackadaisical efforts of its predecessors during recent seasons. If there is to be a change it must be for the better. In the concentrated training of the next eight weeks there is no place for listlessness but alone for conscientious and painstaking effort. Such preparation will guarantee an organization that will reflect nothing but credit on the College. Such is the nature of the organization that Middlebury expects to see developed this year, an attainment which should be the ambition of all who are to be associated with the Glee Club.

While not seeking to excuse such acts of rowdyism as Vermont students were recently called upon to settle for in a local court The Campus is glad to acquit the great majority of University men who attended the game here two weeks ago of any implication in the affair. Such disturbances as were the basis of Middlebury's merchants' complaints were promulgated by a comparatively small group and their actions were wholly out of keeping with the splendid spirit shown by the Vermont stand during the game. The prompt action of the Boulder society in adjusting the claims of downtown merchants has ended the disturbance in a manner that reflects much credit on the University of Vermonnt and confines any taint of dishonor to the small number of individuals primarily concerned.

While the Undergraduate Association has on two occasions protected itself from the evil effects of a manipulation of the unintelligent freshman vote it gives no evidence of a corresponding zeal to enlighten. We wonder if this year's entering class will be left to its own resources in becoming familiar with the Association's constitution or will that body come half way. The bound leaflets which made their appearance shortly after the Association was organized and which contain the necessary information could be duplicated, together with certain corrections, for a comparatively small outlay. Would not the resultant enlightenment on the one hand and the sense of fulfillment of obligation on the other, warrant such an expenditure?

The Periscope

Zeph Boulia reports rushing business in preparation for the Hop.

From now on it will be no-man's land in front of the High School and he who ventures past there without first putting up his collar does so at the risk of a well directed snowball.

We can imagine many forms of amusement which are gentler and just as much fun as a Freshman-Sophomore football game played on a field in the condition Porter Field was and on a day as cold and windy as Saturday was.

There was something prophetic of the score in the six cent wager we made with that eminent sporting blood, John W. Horner. We lost a penny for every point the Sophomores made—and now our faith in the Frosh has been sadly shaken.

We rejoice in the good news that has been received from that famous traveler, Joseph Calvi, who is visiting the "old folks" in sunny Italy. A cablegram addressed to his brother Ned has been received. It reads as follows:

"How business better had take in p-nut stand arrived safe Joe."

It is hard to imagine more difficult training rules than those prescribed by the Women's Athletic Association in their rules and regulations. We quote from Sec. 5 of the By-Laws of that organization:

"b. Retire at 10:30 P. M. and do not rise before 6:00 A. M."

"Eat three regular meals each day (morning, noon and night)."

We might suggest additions:

"x. Never let your studies interfere with your athletic requirements.

"Do not turn your ankle or sprain your wrist or otherwise needlessly incapacitate yourself."

"Breathe deeply and sleep soundly."

The marks are out and the notices have been received. Now is the time all men make good resolutions which they forget by Christmas vacation.

The new faculty in our midst must have done their duty as they saw it and done it nobly. We never saw so many letters on the bulletin board at one time.

Our Ed.-in-Chief was properly grieved and dismayed to see a copy of his pet Campus used for the prosaic function of kindling a fire to warm the atmosphere at Pearsons.

Messrs. Edward Calvi and James Calvi and Miss Sarah Salvi entertained the entire Editorial Staff of The Campus except the Exchange Editor and the Athletic Editor last Thursday from five until half after the hour, thereby wining the everlasting gratitude of the members and establishing a precedent which we sincerely hope will become a custom and feature of Middlebury life.

We were glad for an opportunity to sample some of those fancy dishes Ned offers at a price too fancy for our plebian pocket-books.

Of course we would never suggest it but even so there are some other places in town that might take the lead in establishing the idea in favor of The Campus Board, as for instance the Addison, Betsy's, and the movies. We will respond with additional publicity.

And when the board has been so honored, they might start in on The Periscope Board and still we would not object.

Frosh Entertain at Movies

In response to a gentle hint dropped by members of the Sophomore Rules Committee freshmen demonstrated a variety of "home talent" at the local opera house last Wednesday evening during the intermission between the movie exhibitions. Among other novelties introduced were a pie-eating contest, a peanut race with the nut in question propelled by nose power and a burlesque ring fight. President Hunter presided and a dissertation on "Vampires" was the contribution of Parry '24.

Donald Ross was elected manager of class basketball at a meeting of the sophomore class held in the hemicycle Monday noon.

FORTY CANDIDATES FOR BASKETBALL

'Varsity Stars Show Good Form in First Practice of Season; Brown in Charge

The call for basketball candidates by Manager Cohen last week was answered by between thirty and forty men including veterans of last year's 'Varsity, class team stars, and the usual crop of new players. Coach Brown is in full charge of the workouts at present and is much encouraged with the material he has had to work with so far.

The question of positions is a matter of guess work just at present. Captain Heath will in all probability be seen in one of the forward positions as that is his natural place. "Chuck" Leonard is another of last year's team who is rapidly rounding into form and, if he has the basket-shooting eye that proved such a factor in the scoring column during the games on the latter part of last year's schedule, he will doubtless give any new comer a hard fight for the other forward position. Davis seems a possibility at center and has had some 'Varsity experience there in past years. Franklin is another candidate for the position. Among the backs, Lacy is showing good form and Hardy '24, who has had considerable experience with the Springfield Y. M. C. A. team, is another strong contender.

Among the candidates who were prominent on last year's class teams are Whitmore '21, P. Ross, Lane, and Robinson, all of '22, and Sikorski '23. Among the other new men are Cortiss, Axtell and Wilson of the freshman class.

Victory Dance

About seventy couples attended the Victory dance held Saturday night in McCullough Gymnasium, from seven to eleven-forty o'clock. The chaperones of the evening were Professor and Mrs. Hathaway and Professor and Mrs. Harrington. Music was furnished by a five-piece orchestra composed of Bishop '22, piano; Fitzpatrick, '22, violin; Durkee '24, drums; Prescott, '22, banjo; Adams '24, banjo-mandolin.

The proceeds of the dance are for sweaters and letters for 'Varsity football men.

significant of the sensuous, pleasure-loving nature of the Faun. It is in effect a pastoral rhapsodie without fixed form. The principal melody is a very dreamy and langorous one and after a vague development subsides into a dialogue of rather passionate character. The first melody returns and the picture closes charmingly. The spirit which pervades the closing section is reflected in Edmund Gosses' rhapsodical interpretation of the poem "The delicious hour grew vaguer, experience or dream, the Faun will never know what it was. The sun is warm, the grass is yielding and he curls himself up again after worshiping the efficacious star of wine that he may pursue the dubious ecstacy with the more hopeful baskages of sleep."

Camille Saint Saens is a modern French composer of world repute, his music represents very typically his nationality and has a light, somewhat flippant character. The Scherzo has a dainty, rollicking composition which affords a rather immature idea of the composer's real accomplishments. The variations on a theme of Haydn by Brahms was recently discovered by Messrs. Maier and Pattison. Although this composition has existed since 1860 in orchestral form, it was also written by Brahms for two pianos and this manuscript was thought to be irretrievably lost until unearthed a few months ago. The variations are eight in number and close with a finale of great power. They are almost at all times contrapuntal and occasionally it is rather difficult to trace the theme. Like some of the older composers, Brahms evidently selected the theme because it lends itself well to this form of treatment and also to a display of contrapuntal skill.

Alfred Cassella is a member of the Italian futurist school. His Puapzzetti are fine examples of the dissonance which seems characteristic of some composers of modern tendencies. Cassella is himself a distinguished pianist and has taken into account, with the judgment of an expert, the possibilities and limitations of the pianoforte.

Coronation scene from Boris Godunow by Moussorgski is an arrangement by Mr. Pattison of that composer's original score. Modest Petrovitch Moussorgski was born in Moscow in 1839. His strength as a composer is evident in many compositions for a piano and orchestra but is best known by his operas. Boris Godunow is probably the greatest of these. It is founded on a Puschkin drama. Boris, having killed the Czar forced the populace to offer him the crown and the coronation scene ensues. One realizes here the power of two pianos to uphold the strain of operatic composition which could not be effectively presented by one. The Valse and Scherzo of Anton Arensky are written in entirely conventional style. These pieces have reached a great popularity through the joint efforts of Harold Bauer and Ossip Gabrilowitsch who have repeatedly placed them on their programs.

WORK PROGRESSING ON KALEIDOSCOPE

With a substantial amount of material for the 1922 Kaleidoscope collected, work on the current edition of the college year book is progressing rapidly. Contributions to the Art Department have been frequent and have demonstrated real ability. The Joke Department has issued a call for additional jokes and quips which should be either left in the Kaleidoscope Office, on the second floor of South Painter, or handed personally to Alice Ladd who is in charge of this section of the annual.

The contract for the engravings was signed with the Howard-Wesson Company of Worcester, Mass., last week and some agreement regarding the printing will be effected within a short time.

Business Manager Paul M. Ross reports that the pledges for the book now total three hundred and thirty-three. A drive will be started immediately after the Christmas Recess to collect the amounts due on the pledges.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Selden, of Bristol, Vt., announce the birth of a daughter, Marguerite Helen, born November 6, 1920. Mrs. Selden was Marjorie R. Lee of the class of '16. Mr. Selden is a graduate of M. A. C.

FIVE MEN BENEFIT BY Y. M. C. A. SCHOLARSHIPS

Dr. Collins announces the granting of five additional scholarships made available for ex-service men by the War Council of the Y. M. C. A. Since last January the War Work Council has distributed over two million dollars to 38,582 ex-service men, in the form of scholarships. An additional appropriation of over one million dollars was made recently. It is expected that by June 1921 more than 60,000 ex-service men will have received free scholarships at a cost to the Y. M. C. A. of over six million dollars. The men receiving the scholarships here are Osteyee '21, Jewett '21, Julian '21, Jenkins '23 and Shelvey '23.

ASSOCIATION HAS LIVE SESSION

Two Committees Named and Amendment Read Last Night—Wheeler '24 Wins Council Prize

The creation of a Trophy Committee, announcement of the new personnel of the Auditing Committee, and the first reading of a proposed amendment to the Undergraduate Association were several items crowded into last night's important session of the association in Hepburn social hall. Acting in the capacity of Secretary of Student Council, Lester E. Klimm '24, recently elected representative of the freshman class, read the minutes of that body for the first time.

The Trophy Committee is to be headed by R. S. Noonan '21 and will include the heads of all student activities. The selections of Student Council for the 1920-21 Auditing Committee are L. E. Brown '21, L. R. Bigelow '21 and C. E. Howard '22.

An amendment which aims to vest in Athletic Council the power to deprive letter men of the right to wear 'Varsity insignia providing, for no sufficient reason, they do not engage in the sport in which it was originally granted during the succeeding season, was introduced by J. W. Timberman '22, captain of baseball. The proposal was laid over until the first meeting in January when it will be voted upon.

Announcement was made of the award of the Student Council prize, a large Middlebury banner, to L. R. Wheeler for the most original get-up in the Freshman P-rade. Reports of the 1921 football management and of the Rally-Banquet were read.

Y. W. C. A. OBSERVES NATIONAL PRAYER WEEK

In observance of the week of prayer among college Y. W. C. A. organizations in behalf of its international work a special missionary meeting was held in Pearsons Hall Thursday evening. Sixteen college women in costume, representing delegates from various countries of Europe, Asia and South America told what Y. W. C. STUDENT GOVERNMENT DELEGATES REPORT

Elmira Women Hostesses for Annual Convention—Two New Colleges Admitted as Members

A Student Government meeting was held in the Old Chapel, Friday afternoon, November 19, at five o'clock, the principal business of which was the report of the Conference of the Women's Inter-Collegiate Association for Student Government which was held recently at Elmira College, Elmira, N. Y.

Miss Ruth E. Coolidge, the junior delegate gave a general resume of the convention. On their arrival, she said that each group of delegates was met and looked after by a special girl, who did everything in her power for their comfort and convenience during their stay. On Thursday afternoon at four o'clock, a tea was given to all the delegates in Alumnae Hall in order that they might become acquainted with the Elmira girls and with each other, while that evening a play "Fanny and the Servant Problem", by Jerome K. Jerome was presented by the senior girls in Cowles Hall, after which everyone gathered in the Octagon and sang.

On Friday morning the convention was opened by Mary Collins, president of Student Goverment at Elmira. It was decided to admit as members of the association the colleges of Smith and West Virginia, and that the convention next year should be held at Simmons College, Wellesley holding the offices of vice-president and treasurer and Mt. Holyoke that of secretary. Different phases and problems of Student Government as well as of college in general were then brought up, and such matters as executive councils, mass meetings, honor and cut systems, and counselling of Freshmen were discussed. Other colleges have a greater number of and more regular mass meetings, and they also carry out the "big sister" idea in regard to Freshmen. Our cut system, however, is better than in most places.

On Friday afternoon the delegates were taken to Watkins Glenn under the direction of the Rotary Club, and in the evening were addressed by Mrs. Rosenberry, President of the Association of Collegiate Alumni. Saturday morning another discussion meeting was held, and a hockey game in the afternoon closed the convention. In summing up the ideas gained from the conference, Miss Coolidge brought out the need of making Student Government a constructive force in college instead of a destructive one.

The president, Carleta A. Ottman then described more in detail the address of Mrs. Rosenberry, who has had a great deal of experience with girls, having been at one time Dean of the University of Wisconsin, and also a teacher at Vassar. Mrs. Rosenberry took as her topic "The Ideals of Self Government" and she brought out the fact that every girl should be developed in four ways, socially, physically, mentally, and spiritually.

It was suggested at the meeting and later noted that a cap and gown should be bought for the President of Student Government the latter of which should be handed down through each successive president. The cap, however, which is to bear a blue and white tassel, is to be kept by each.

Miss Florence G. Clarke attended the Yale-Harvard game Saturday.

DR. POTTER SPEAKS AT VESPER SERVICE

Preacher From Hartford, Conn., Delivers Forceful Message on Christian Life

Rev. Rockwell Harmon Potter, D. D., of Hartford, Conn., was the speaker at Sunday Vespers, November 21. From his text taken from the fifth chapter of Matthew,—"What do ye more than others?", Dr. Potter drew a fine distinction between a merely moral life and the life of a Christian. It is not as easy to recognize a Christian in these days as it used to be, as at the present time there are certain elementary obligations which lie upon all persons alike. Clean living, truth, and honesty, are expected of everyone. Another point brought out in the sermon was the fact that a Christian could not claim exemption from a share in the world's works. He, too, must render service to humanity.

The Christian in doing his work should have higher, more impelling motives; he should do it with readiness, promptness, eagerness, and steadiness, realizing that the God of righteousness is the God of grace, that the God of law is the God of love.

Dr. Potter is a prominent man in New England, being president of the Connecticut Bible Society, The Connecticut Institute for the Blind, and a director of the Hartford Seminary Foundation. He is a member of the University Club and of the Chi Psi fraternity, and the author of "The Common Faith of Common Men." He has been pastor of the Central Congregational Church of Hartford since 1900.

Glee Club Meets

Tuesday, November 16, saw the first meeting of the 1920 Glee Club. About twenty men met in the Band Room, South Painter Hall at five o'clock and elected Swan '20 as leader, and Pierce '21 as manager. It was also decided that regular meetings be held Frriday evenings weekly. Prof. Abbott presided.

As yet no schedule has been arranged, but with the early organization of the club, it may be expected that a good number of dates will be secured.

THREE LETTER MEN RETIRE

ling power has made him one of the big factors in making the season a success. These men are all around men in college life and their loss to the football squad is only one big branch of student activity in which they will leave a big gap to be filled next year.

The return of the remainder of the football letter men is assured with the possible exception of Monyahan who played such a smashing game at center during the games this fall. In addition to these men there is a wealth of material on the squad which did not get very far into the lime light of the past season, but who are none the less capable of playing a better brand of football next year after the seasoning they have had on the squad this year. The fact that Coach Morey will again be connected with the directing and training of the eleven for the 1921 season adds just so much more to the chances of a Championship year for Captain Gollnick and the men who will be fortunate enough to follow him.

LOVING CUP FOR SENATOR KINGSLEY

At a meeting of the senior class held yesterday afternoon in the hemicycle, it was decided that the long-considered gift to Senator Harvey R. Kingsley should be presented on Thanksgiving Day.

It had been voted at a previous meeting that recognition of Mr. Kingsley's services to the class in coaching the junior play of last year should take the form of an inscribed silver loving cup.

The cup has been obtained and yesterday a committee consisting of Angeline M. Simpson, L. R. Bigelow, R. T. Aldrich, F. T. Brigham, and J. W. Mead, was appointed to present the trophy.

Women's Athletic Ass'n. to Meet

An important meeting of the Women's Athletic Association is to be held next Friday afternoon, November 26, in the Old Chapel room. Letters will be awarded to the all-Midd teams, and the sweater which is given to the girl who gets fifty points in athletics will be exhibited for the purpose of arousing interest. The girls who have not at yet paid their athletic dues will have a chance to do so at this time.
